Helping Children to Read, Write and Spell

Synthetic Phonics, ever heard of it? Phonics is now being used in most schools to teach children how to read and spell. Instead of learning whole words, children are being taught the sounds that make up the English language and how to use them to build words.

This course provides a concise and interesting introduction to using phonics. Its emphasis is on the three basic skills of synthetic phonics: letter sounds, blending for reading and segmenting for spelling.

The course provider, Anne McKeefry, has 35 years teaching experience mainly in Primary 1 and 2 classes. She has used the Jolly Phonics programme for 12 years, been a teacher/ trainer for 9 years and has done training with the programme authors. The approach Anne uses to teach phonics is clear, fun and produces results that amaze.
