

Proofreading a Story

REMEMBER After writing something, it is a good idea to read it through to make sure there are no mistakes.

This is the beginning of a story. Read it through, correcting the spelling mistakes and adding in the punctuation marks and capital letters.

it was frieday morning and three cooks needed to bake a cake for a partee we need an egg and a slab of butter called one of the cooks we need flour and sugar as well showted the sekond cook the cooks mixed them in a bowl and put it in a trai oh no! i have dropped the trai showted one of the cooks as he went to put it in the oven we will need to start again or we will not have a cake to bring for the partee

There are 8 missing capital letters, 6 missing full stops, 2 missing commas, 8 missing speech marks (4 pairs), 2 missing exclamation marks and 8 spelling mistakes!

What do you think might happen next? Continue the story on the lines.

By: _____